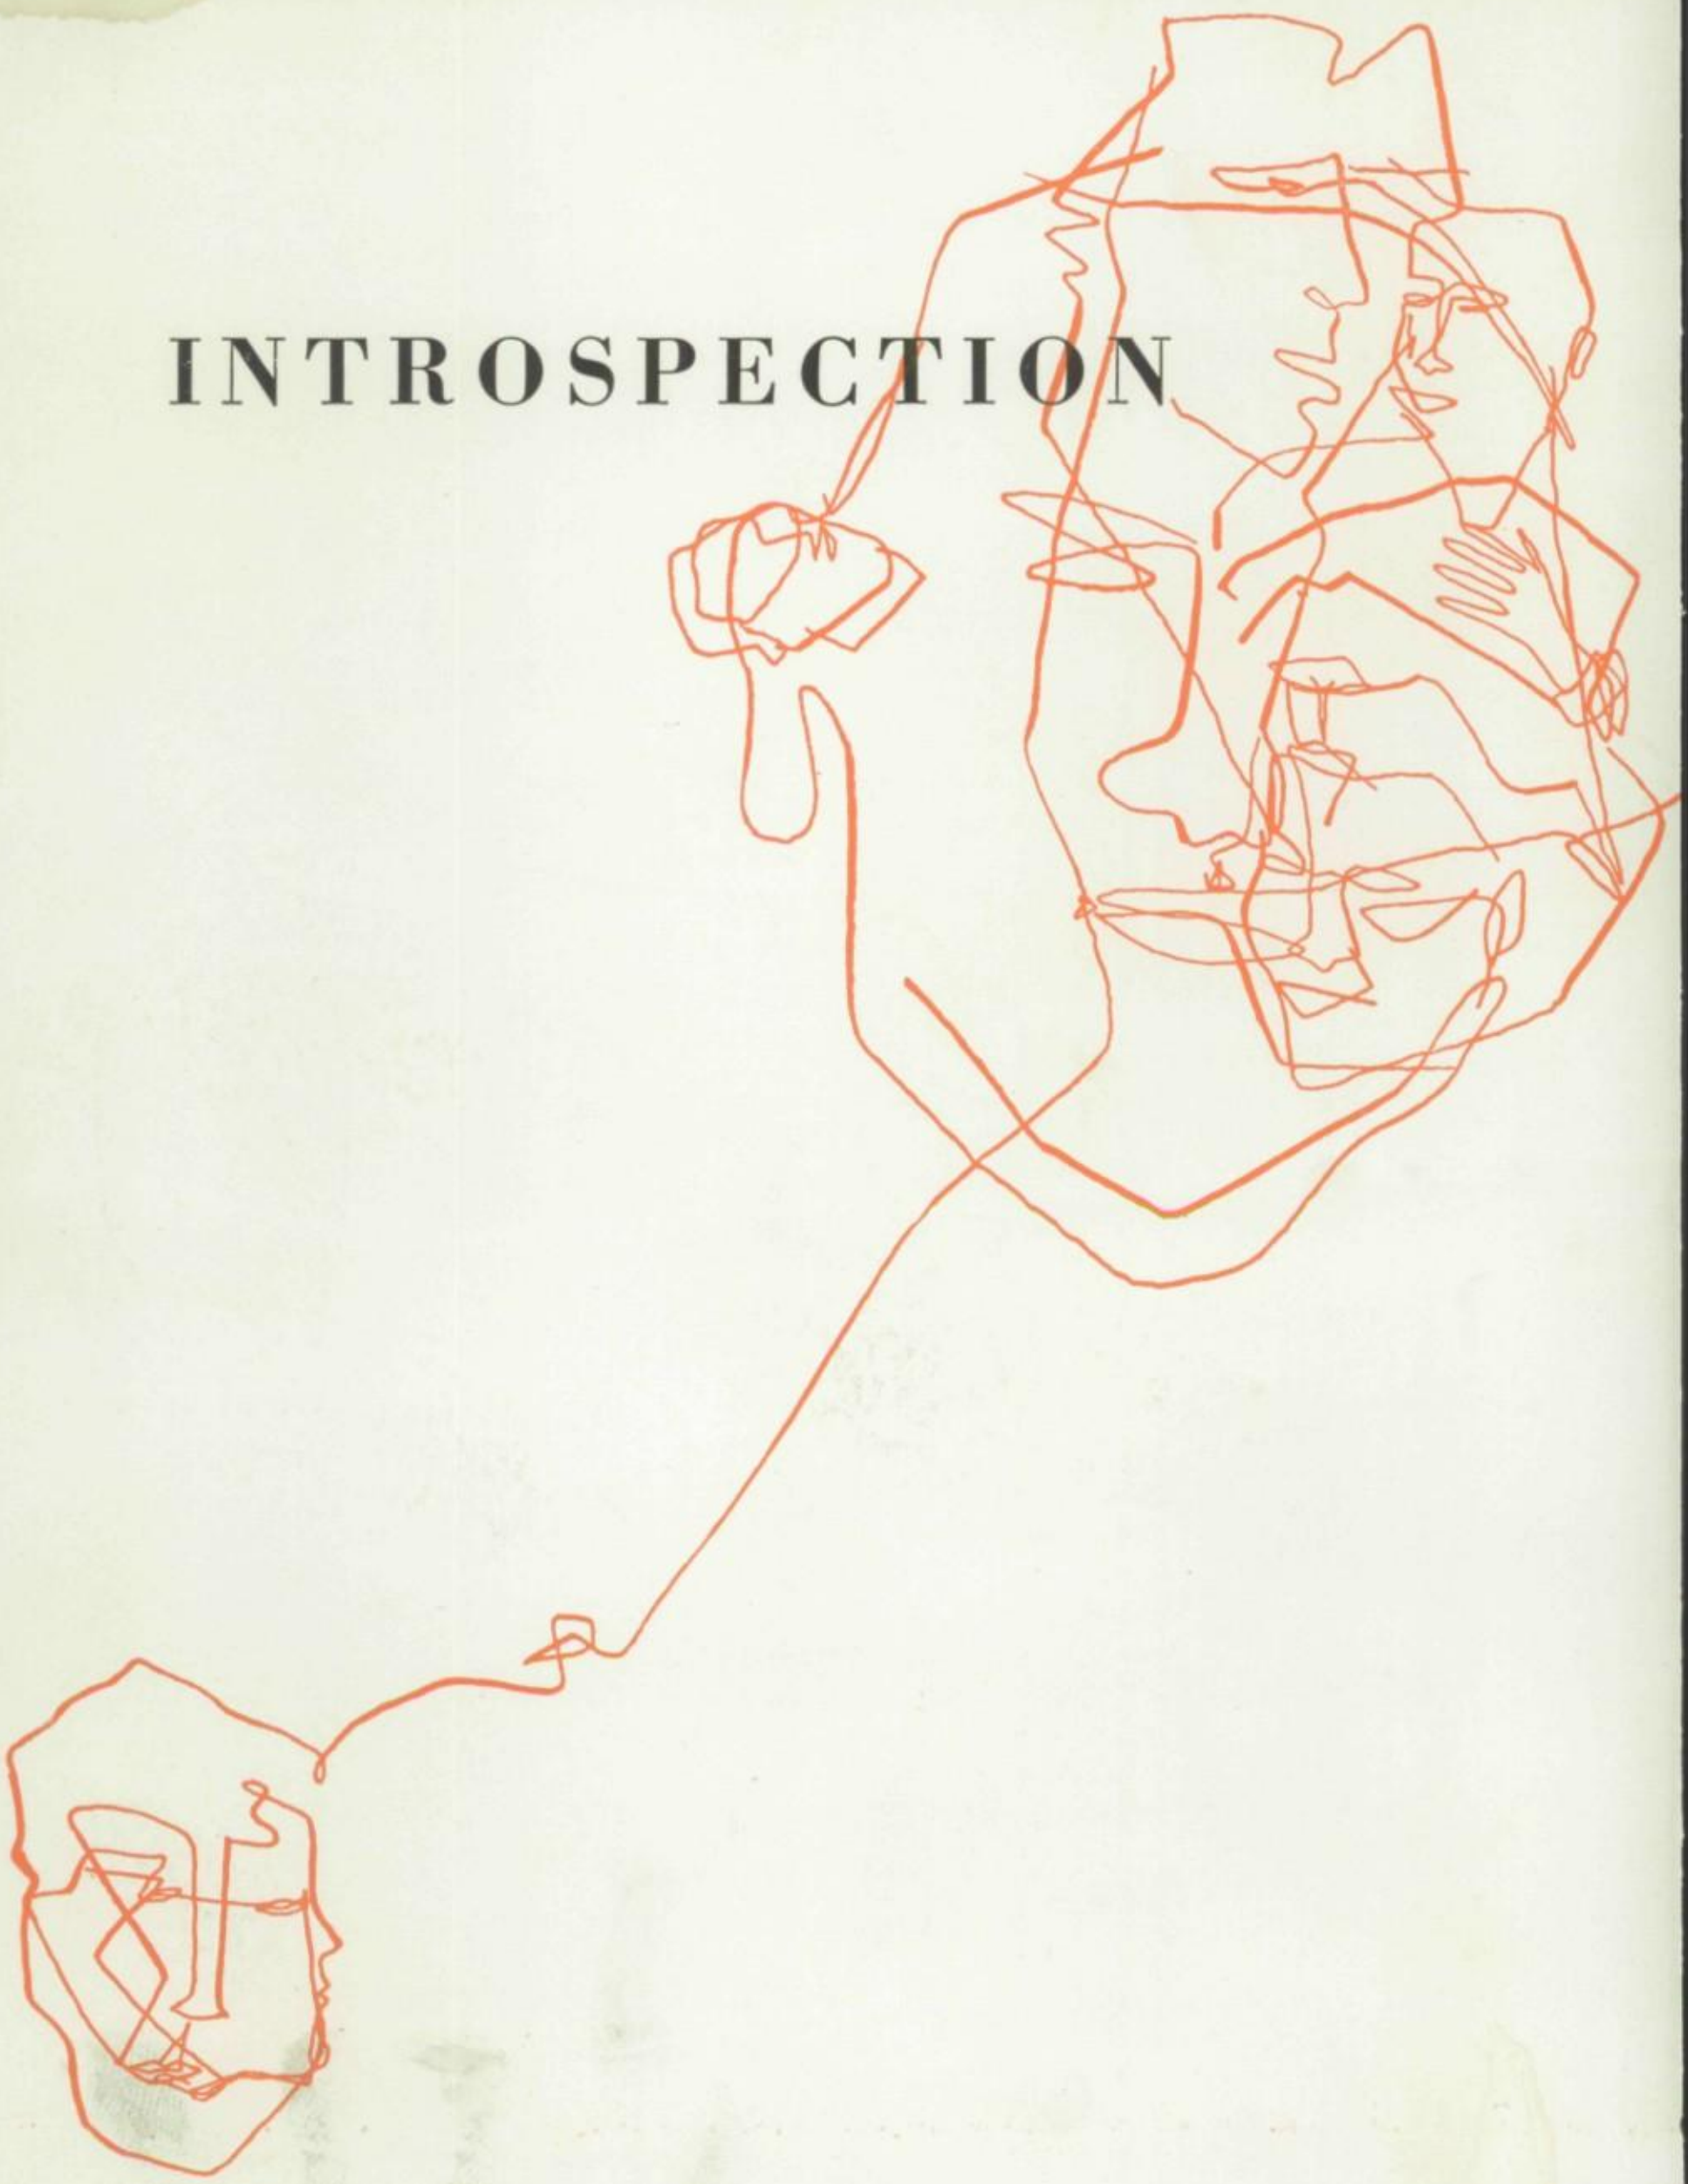
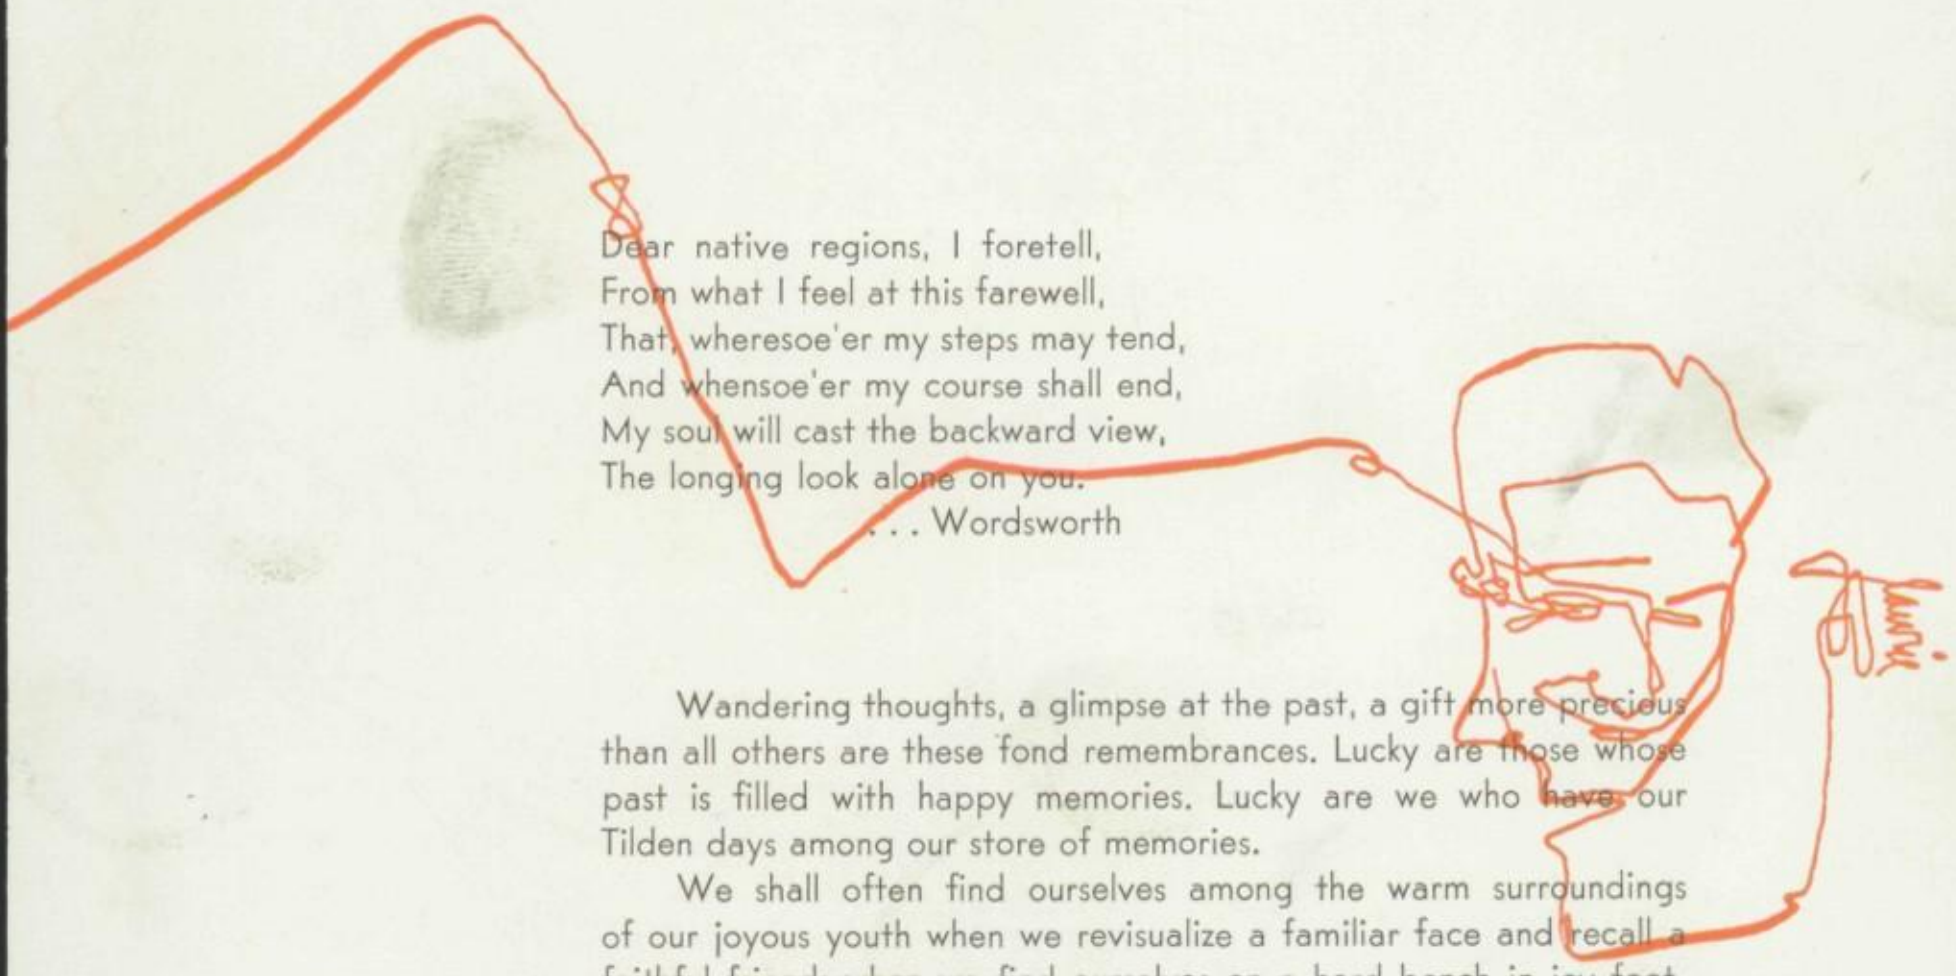
INTROSPECTION



Dear native regions, I foretell,
From what I feel at this farewell,
That, wheresoe'er my steps may tend,
And whensoe'er my course shall end,
My soul will cast the backward view,
The longing look alone on you.
. . . Wordsworth

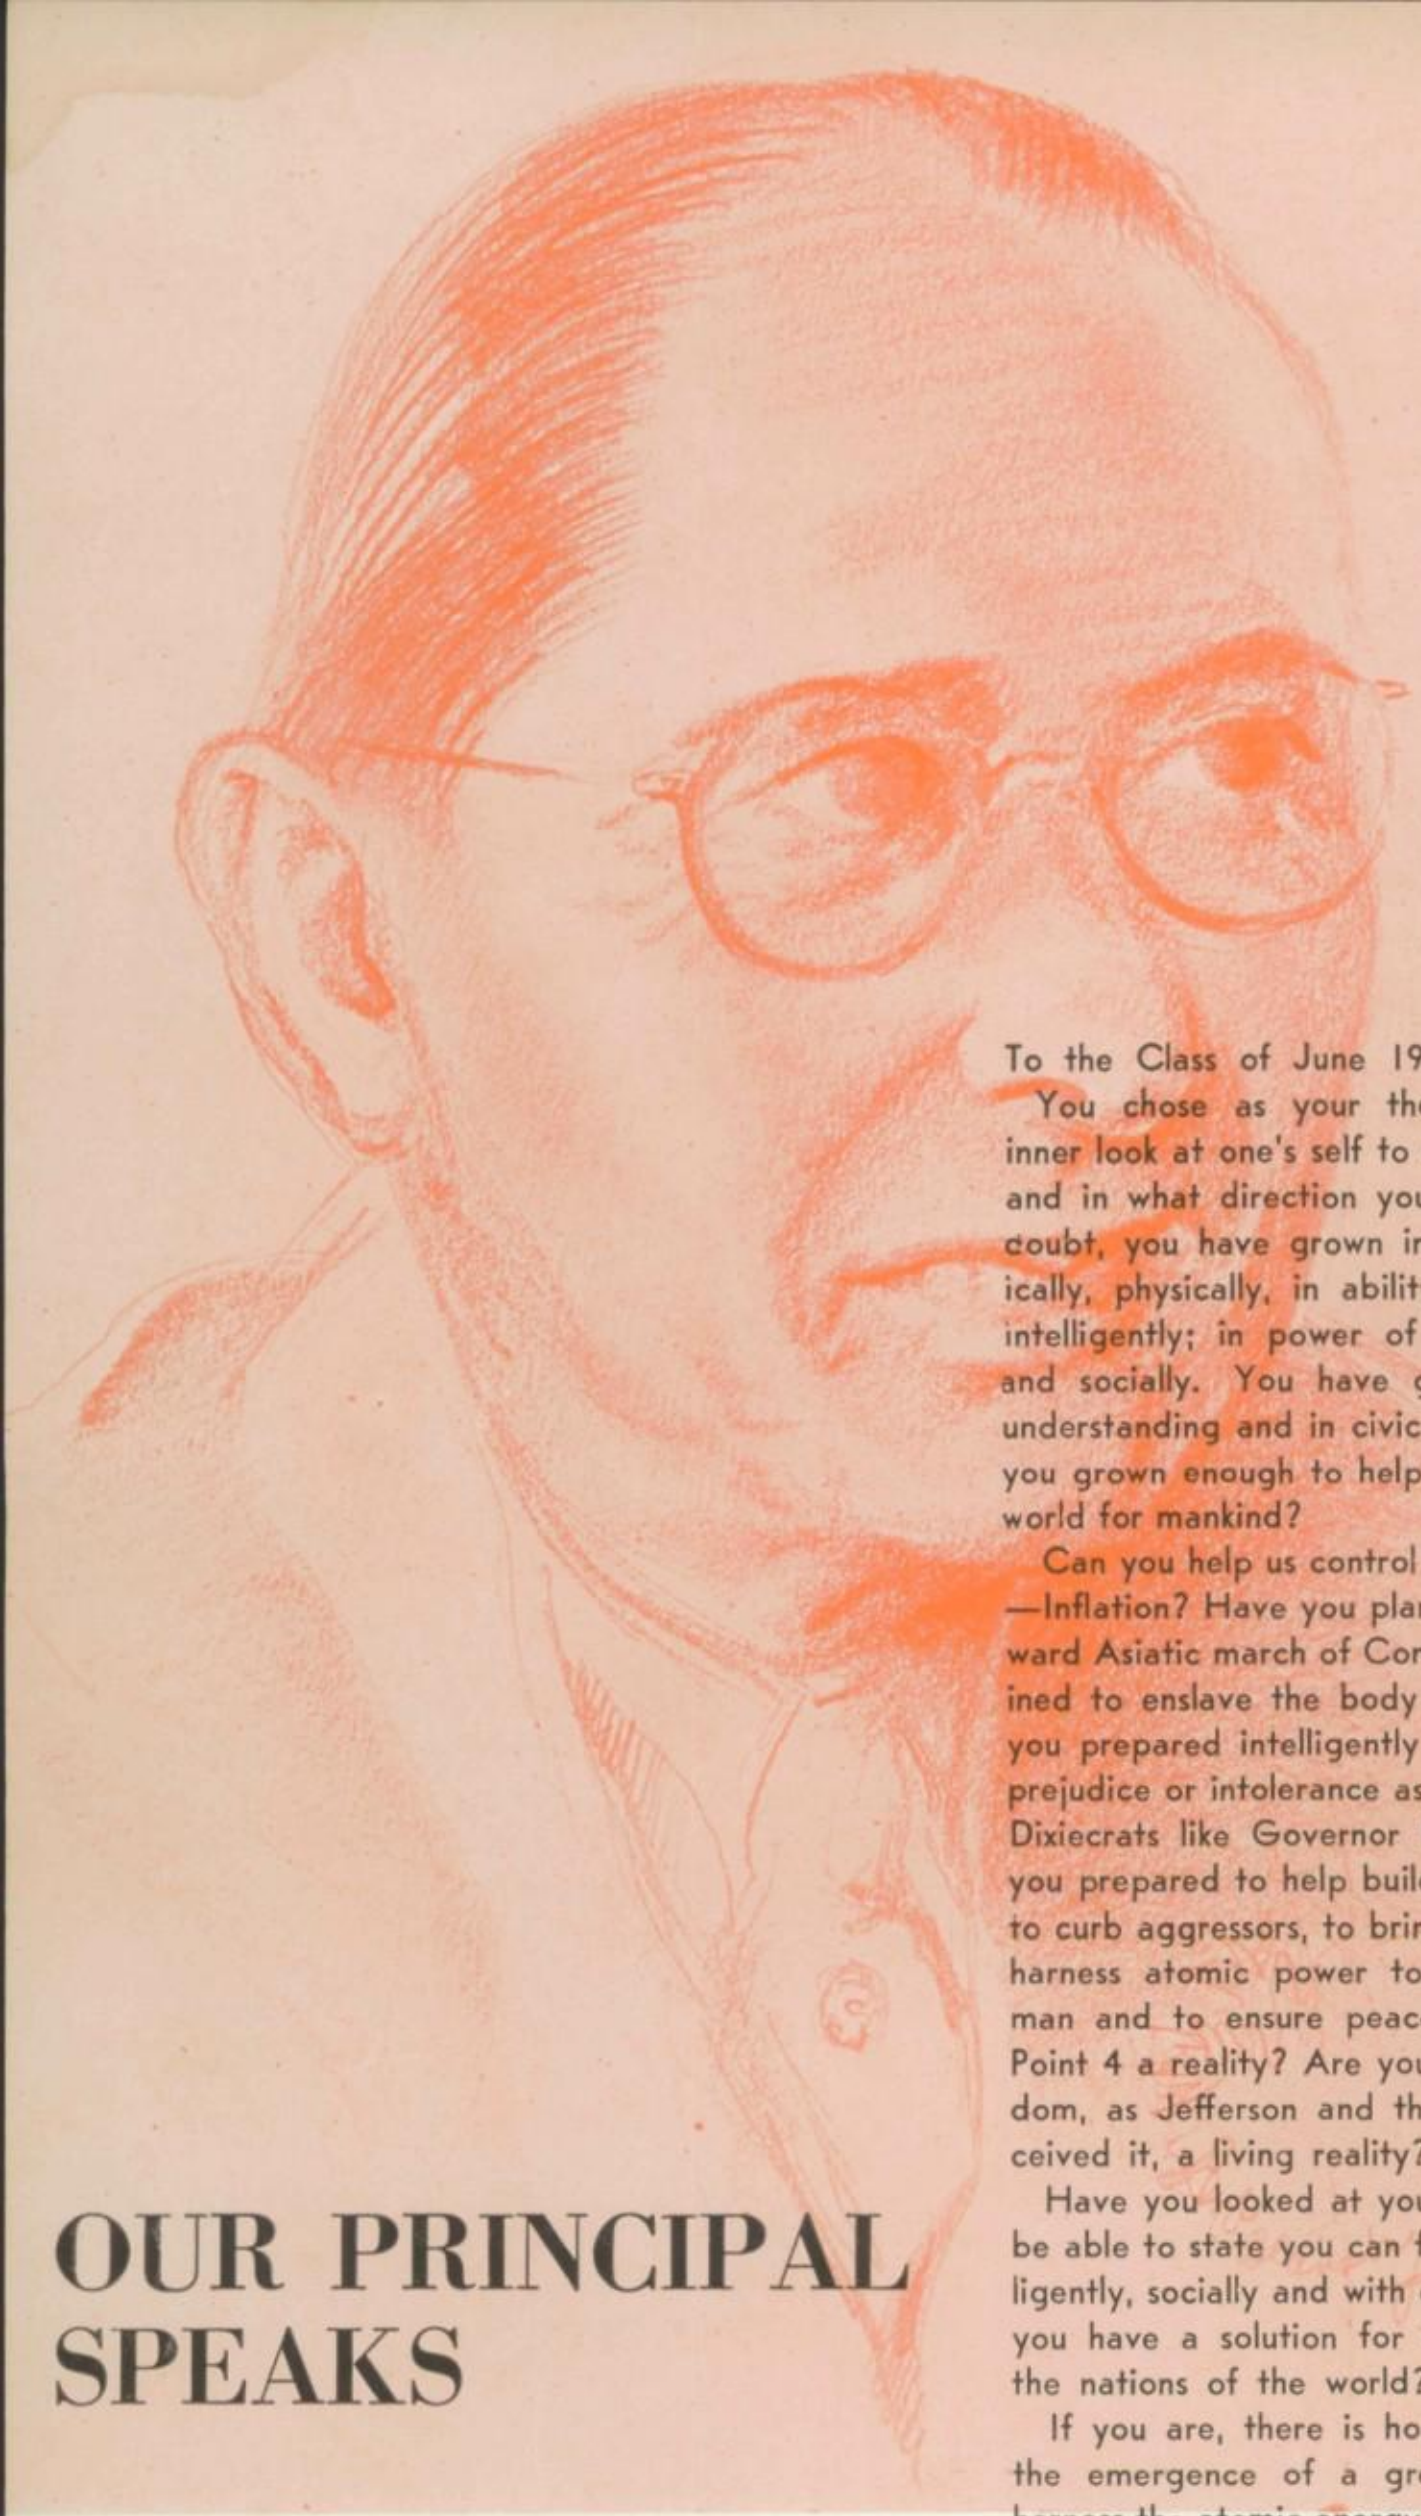


Wandering thoughts, a glimpse at the past, a gift more precious than all others are these fond remembrances. Lucky are those whose past is filled with happy memories. Lucky are we who have our Tilden days among our store of memories.

We shall often find ourselves among the warm surroundings of our joyous youth when we revisualize a familiar face and recall a faithful friend; when we find ourselves on a hard bench in icy football weather screaming for a touchdown; when the nervous gnawing in our stomachs before an exam resurges through our being; when the gay music of a school dance floats in the air and brings with it a tender memory; when a word of praise from a teacher crops up and we swell with pride as we did then; when a vision of the moment that we stole a glance at our parents' faces as we received our diplomas, appears before us; when the shivers climb as we hear a familiar strain of the Alma Mater.

Yes, in future years, we shall revisit these days over and over again. We shall long to return, but know it is a part of the never to be regained past. But there is always the memory; the indelible impression, and we shall be thankful for our wondering thoughts.

BARBARA BARLIN



OUR PRINCIPAL SPEAKS

To the Class of June 1952:

You chose as your theme "Introspection" an inner look at one's self to see how you have grown and in what direction your destiny may lead. No doubt, you have grown in many directions—artistically, physically, in ability to think critically and intelligently; in power of expression; vocationally and socially. You have grown in self-control, in understanding and in civic consciousness. But have you grown enough to help plan and build a better world for mankind?

Can you help us control the greatest social cheat—Inflation? Have you planned how to stop the onward Asiatic march of Communism which is determined to enslave the body and mind of man? Are you prepared intelligently to undermine prevailing prejudice or intolerance as exhibited by Ku Kluxers, Dixiecrats like Governor Byrnes, and others? Are you prepared to help build a real U.N. with power to curb aggressors, to bring about disarmament, to harness atomic power to work constructively for man and to ensure peace and plenty by making Point 4 a reality? Are you prepared to make freedom, as Jefferson and the Founding Fathers conceived it, a living reality?

Have you looked at yourself critically enough to be able to state you can face these problems intelligently, socially and with confidence? Are you sure you have a solution for the problems that beset the nations of the world?

If you are, there is hope for humanity and for the emergence of a great new world that will harness the atomic energy for constructive purposes and peace instead of for war and destruction.

I am confident, young America will lead the world to greater production, to peace and plenty for all mankind.

ABRAHAM LEFKOWITZ

EDITORIAL

Most young men and women of ambition are in constant search of something that will help them on the road to success. Such aid is found in many ways and through many persons. It may come through friends, chance acquaintances, books and formal education and training. It may take the form of wise advice, searching criticism and disinterested appraisal of character. It may be free or bought and paid for. It may be amateur or professional. It may be found in the lives of great men, in a casual anecdote, in textbook theory, in everyday experience, and in the observation of one's associates.

But no outsider, no outside force can wave the wand that brings success. Fundamentally, it is not to be found in other persons, in books or lectures or even in observation. Deeds, not words are what put men on top. The successful man may gain help and inspiration from others, but he always blazes a path of his own. The most valuable advice and analysis he ever gets are those to which he subjects himself.

The ambitious salesman takes a course in salesmanship. It will help him, possibly. But there is no fairy wand, and though a belief in fairies adds to the joy of childhood, it only carries adults away from the straight and forward path. The course in salesmanship may do more harm than good, if it is conceived of as anything more than an aid to growth. All outside aids are in a sense artificial. One fallacy of expert advice, education, books, articles in newspapers and magazines and training courses, is, that no matter how honestly they are conceived and offered, too many people consider these alone as a basis of their success, forgetting the importance of personal achievement. No search is so frequent yet so useless and pitiful, as the search for a substitute to take the place of the slow and painful process of inner growth that signifies success.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A SENIOR

To go or not to go: that was our question
Whether to arise in the morning and suffer the slings
And curses of outrageous busdrivers, or,
To avenge these tyrants and take a taxi cab.
To go; to sleep, perchance to dream of the mournful
Droning of the trigonometric equation.
T'was a pleasure devoutly to be wished.
To be ruthlessly awakened to the dulcet blasting
Of the gym whistle, only to reenter the arms of Morpheus
While we attended English 8.
The pangs of ptomaine poisoning, the medical room's delay,
The insolence of the marshals, the spurns of the detention room
Made us long for the dismissal bell.
To grunt and sweat during a Regents exam,
With only the will to graduate to urge us on.
Thus a diploma did make cowards of us all.
To go or not to go: we went!

EXTRA-CURRICULAR

HOME, JAMES!!!

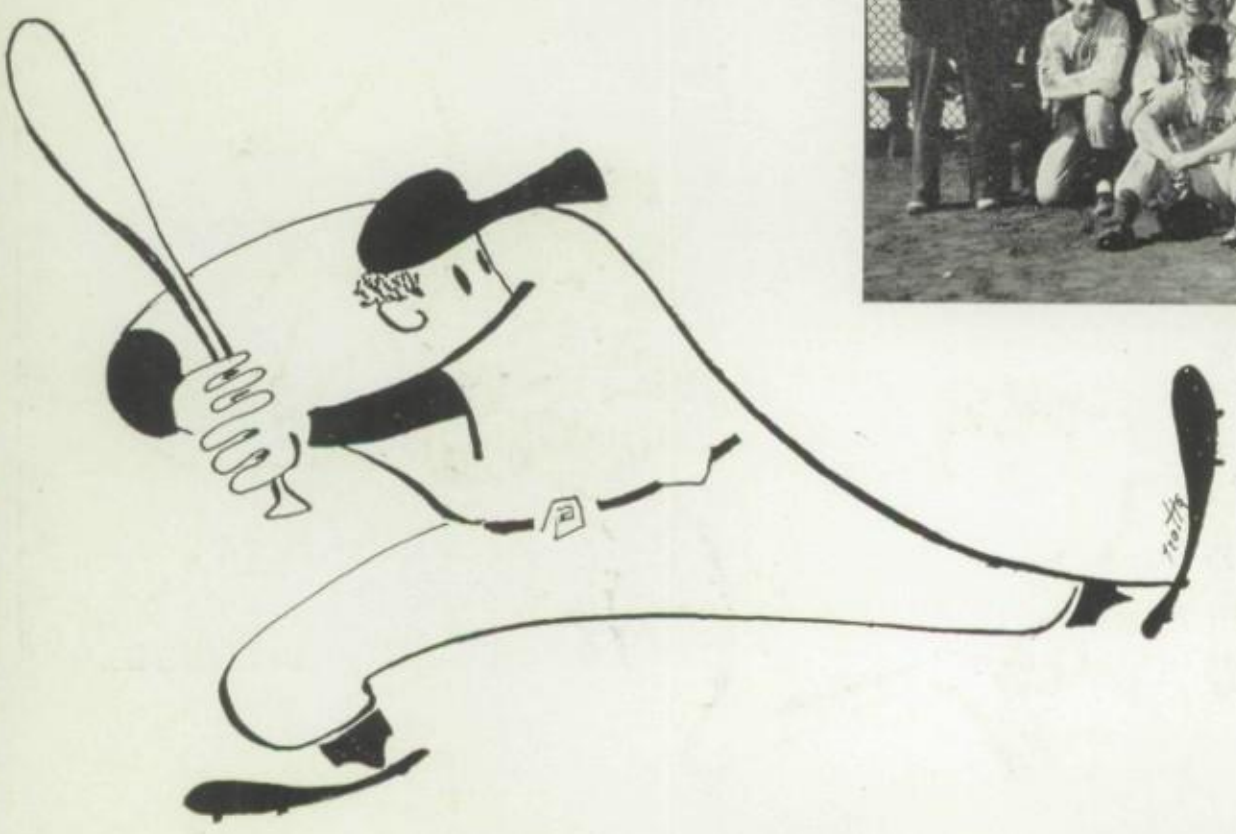
S P O R T S

Although during the past four years, Tilden has not fielded consistently winning teams, it can never be said that the will and spirit to win were at any time absent. Due to the ban on extra-curricular activities, most of the sports activity occurred during our last year at school.

In spite of the fact that our grid eleven was hard hit by the ninth term ruling which resulted in the loss of many stars, we did manage to upset two of the league's top teams, Boys High and Manual Training. The 7-7 tie to which we fought Boys High had to be forfeited later because of Tilden's inadvertent use of an ineligible player. The 18-7 upset of Manual featured a brilliant exhibition by Bush Herman, the flashy Blue and Gray halfback.

The season's highlight, however, was the traditional Tilden-Jeff Thanksgiving Day tilt. After leading at the half 13-12, Tilden failed to score in the third period while the Presidents tallied once to lead 18-13. In the last quarter after the Blue and Gray had taken the lead once again 20-18, Jefferson hit "pay dirt" to lead, with two minutes to go, 24-18. Then one of the most thrilling climaxes in the history of the Tilden-Jeff rivalry ensued. The Blue and Gray staged a 65 yard march finally scoring with a pass from Wolfe to Court as only 30 seconds remained in the game.

The season's end found two Tilden linemen, Jerry Court and Howie Slossberg being elected to All-Met. berths with Court also getting a position on the All-American High School Grid Eleven.



A far greater loss than any game was the transfer of popular Coach Weidman to Seward Park High School. His position will be filled by Gene Ezersky, a new arrival to Tilden's Health Ed. Dept.

The Blue and Gray swimming team did not have too successful a season, either, as they lost 9 starters by virtue of the ninth term ruling. Among the squads strong men were Kaminsky, Shapiro, Bressack and Finkelstein, the latter two were awarded berths on the City PSAL swimming team. Among some of the season's wins were Grady and Hamilton, while we sustained loses at the hands of Tech, Erasmus, Jefferson and Curtis.

The Tilden Hoopsters, all inexperienced in PSAL play started the season rather poorly with only a 3-4 record for the first half. Under Coach Krugman's expert handling and with a little experience, the team surprised everyone, with four straight wins in the second half. At the outset of tryouts, the coach refused to accept any Seniors so that the team would not sustain any losses by a January graduation. This policy resulted in a well organized ball club which defeated Brooklyn Tech, Eastern District, Automotive and Westinghouse, and finished the season with a 7-7 record in a fourth place tie with Automotive.

The Blue and Gray five was sparked by such standouts as Shelly Pollack, Gil Kaplan, Bob Turpin, and Irwin Ginsberg. Of these starters, both Pollack and Kaplan finished the season with more than 100 points in the scoring column.

With return of extra-curricular activities, the girl resumed their athletic competition. Under the direction of Miss McAleer, the new girls gym department head, many a new female athletic club was formed. A girls swimming club was organized, with the only qualifications for membership being an interest in water activities. The club met once a week under the supervision of Mrs. Farley and it featured periods of instruction as well as active competition. Another popular club was the Tennis Club which practiced on private courts. The club, headed by Mrs. Juliber, met every Thursday.

SPOTLIGHT

Each graduating class has its so-called celebrities. By self acclamation there are at least 750 of that ilk in this class. Whether elected or not, there are some souls, happy and unhappy—who have at one time or another, stood in the lemony, temporary glare of the senior spotlight. Here are some who will be remembered:

Jack Somer—The illustrious Senior President has proven that he can be right and president at the same time.

Rita Ellix—Our pretty Senior Secretary doesn't have to know how to add, but she sure can distract . . .

Jerry Goldenberg—He has shown us there is one thing wrong with being the G.O. President—There is no chance for advancement.

Barbara Jayne Pearlman—Our perservering Editor-in-Chief is out to prove that the stepping stone to the "New Yorker" is the Senior Classic with the help of an ex-art editor.

Norman Volk—You have to be dead to get your face on money, but Normie's very much alive because he's got his hands on it.

Joan Feiner—As the Editor of Topics she has proven that television can never replace the newspaper. One can't swat flies with a T.V. set.

Arlene Fisher—Tilden's edition of a live wire—
Full of spark and always on the run.

Barbara Barlin—As a lass with brains, she's gone to the head of the professor's class—
But as a lass with class, she's gone to the head of the professor.

Harold Reisman—He's an honor student and has shown that education pays—that is, unless you become an educator.

Alvin Greenberg—Although 5 days of school serve to make one weak, Al still has plenty of vim and vigor for the weekend.

Zelda Berman—A true journalist—She works harder than any other lazy person in the world.

Donald Horowitz—He has become a successful student by thoroughly planning his work, and then thoroughly working his plan.

Amy Gross—Some Tilden fellows pursue learning, but when Amy's around, they learn pursuing.

Elliot Urdang—Here's the one thing that distinguishes him from the rest—Elliot manages to keep awake through the first three periods and learn also.

Carol Kalkstein—Carol believes in doing things in a big way—a 6 door Cadillac, a 1001 tail mink, and a tall Texan oil well.

Jerry Court—Those stuck-up Jeffersonians, Tilden did harass,
When Jerry Court caught that memorable Thanksgiving Day pass.

Lorraine Handler—Lorraine is the sweetest flower—Girl Leader of Arista.

Hilda Dickoff—Tilden's trademark for 4 years—Hilda's curls.

Norton Cooper—We can still hear Norty saying with a puzzled look—"He's 5'11"?"

Laurie Mutchnik—In the spring a young art editor's ideas turn to thoughts of . . . architecture.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the class of June 1952, being of sound mind and body, and of a generous disposition, do hereby, on this, the glorious occasion of our graduation, declare this to be our last will and testament, replacing all other hopes, wishes and muttered threats which might have been made during our sojourn in Samuel J. Tilden High School.

To Dr. Lefkowitz we leave a round trip ticket to Washington. No more Albany for us.

To Mr. Diamond we leave a copy of "Blackstone, the World's Greatest Magician."

To Miss Grand we leave a saucer to take to the Honor Tea.

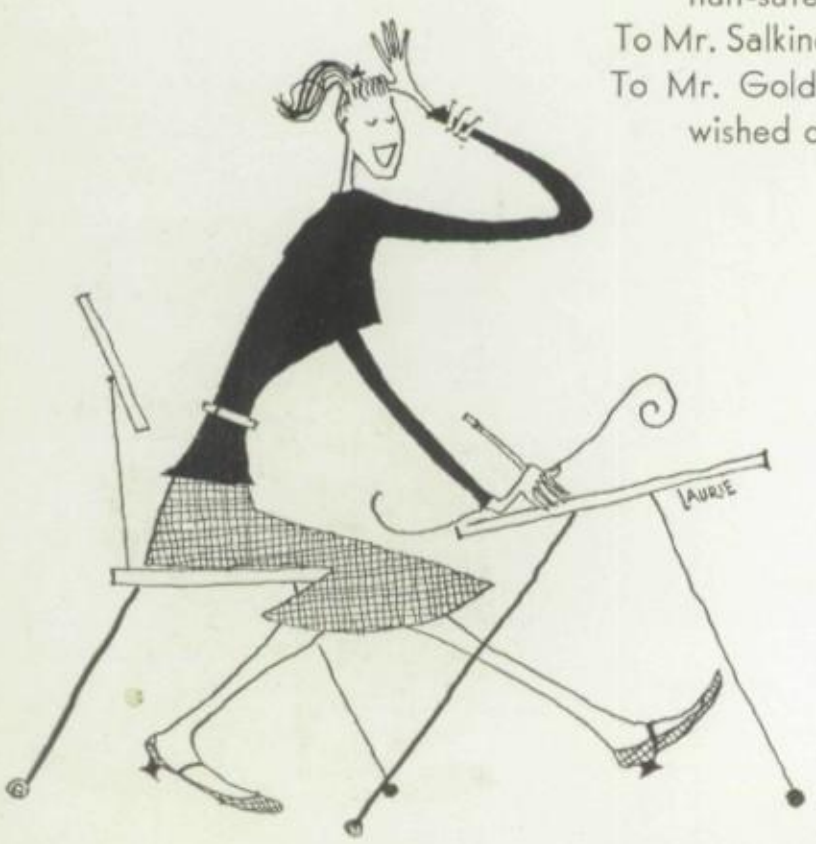
To Mr. Solomon we leave a NEW theorem that two triangles are congruent if they look alike.

To Mr. Saphier we leave an aptitude test for tropical fish.

To Mr. Suttenberg we leave a bottle of Chanel No. 10—Why be half-safe?

To Mr. Salkind we leave piles of tests we couldn't finish.

To Mr. Gold we leave a ballet dancer's costume to fulfill his long wished desire.



To Mr. Max we leave a "Higher Standard of Living."
To Mr. Zahn we leave the halls that our hushed voices kept so quiet.
To Mr. Juddson we leave a regular verb with a regular student.
To Mr. Paley we leave a (Hershey) bar, this time to make him a general.
To Miss McAleer we leave a washing machine and ironing board so she can do the gym suits to perfection herself.
To the Math Dept. we leave the square root of —1, so that they won't have to teach imaginaries anymore.
To the History Dept. we leave a television set in each room, so that they can finally teach "Living History."
To the Economics Dept. we leave a sheaf of valuable stocks so that a personal interest can be taken while studying them.
To the Guidance Dept. we leave a 48 hour day and a staff of 7,000.
To the Late Squad we leave pretty pink slips instead of the usual blue, so that the students will accept them more readily.
To the Library we leave a system by which all the books will be absorbed by osmosis, thereby leaving them clean for future use as stepladders.
To the Medical Room we leave the memories of old aches, old pains and the memories of the many tests we missed while there.
To Tilden Topics we leave the motto: "A Topic in the hand is worth two in the wastebasket."
To Mr. Lefkowitz we leave a memorable (?) yearbook.
To Posterity the Editors leave the following:
"Not a life of ease, but a life of effort, and the happiness that accompanies the achievement and the fulfillment of your hopes."

In witness of the above, we hereby affix our signatures:
ARLEEN FISHER
RENA MOGIL
Notarized: Barbara Pearlman—Editor-in-Chief.

INTROSPECTION

We wander through the labyrinth of life,
A half-forgotten maze of love and hate,
A dream of trusting faith and cunning guile,
Of dark unyielding vision dawning bright.
Introspection . . . meditation
Intellection . . . contemplation
Gaze within . . . .
Explore the yawning depths
Of time . . . of space.
Search with sharp relentless motive;
Pry with piercing salient knowledge,
Hollow yoke of selfish life and
Ravaged walls of greed and strife.

The skies are clear, the future bright
Why falter?
Then find your path and use your sight;
Be guided by reflection's light
And trust to beauty, a truth and right.

Truth . . . what is truth?
The potent rain gulped by the hungry earth;
The vengeful sea-pounding the helpful sand;
The grass, reaching up to eternity's child,
Entity . . . or void?
I know not, and yet I believe, and by believing
Create an existence of infinite powers.

The future waits, the heavens open wide
So enter then, and drink of life's untried,
Don't fear . . .
Draw near . . .
And meet the challenge of this endless sphere.
Introspection . . . rumination
Recollection . . . application.

IN MEMORIAM

It is with deep regret that the SENIOR CLASSIC notes the passing of Mr. John Luxton, a well-liked member of the faculty, and Alan Ungerman, a popular senior.

Mr. Luxton, a member of the biology department, had been with Tilden since its opening in 1930. He gave unstintingly of his time and efforts in order to help Tildenites in the capacity of adviser of the Book Room. His students received much more than the required course of study, as Mr. Luxton had a deep and sincere love for his work. An avid reader and horticulturist, Mr. Luxton will long be remembered by all those who were fortunate to have in some way been associated with him.

Alan Ungerman, a well-liked member of the senior class was both a good scholar and an avid participant in the extra-curricular activities of the school. Excelling in the fields of Mathematics and Science, Alan was always striving to learn more. Alan enjoyed his school life and therefore was a leader in the organizations to which he belonged. Alan Ungerman was a boy with high ideals and fine character and will sincerely be missed by all of his fellow Tildenites.
